

Colorectal cancer is cancer that occurs in the colon or rectum. Sometimes it is called colon cancer. The colon is the large intestine or large bowel. The rectum is the passageway that connects the colon to the anus. Colorectal cancer is the second leading cancer killer in the United States, but it doesn't have to be. If you are 50 or older, getting a colorectal cancer screening test could save your life.

Screening Saves Lives

Here's how:

- Colorectal cancer usually starts from precancerous polyps in the colon or rectum. A polyp is a growth that shouldn't be there.
- Over time, some polyps can turn into cancer.
- Screening tests can find precancerous polyps, so they can be removed before they turn into cancer.
- Screening tests also can find colorectal cancer early, when treatment works best.

Are You at High Risk?

Your risk for colorectal cancer may be higher than average if:

- You or a close relative have had colorectal polyps or colorectal cancer.
- You have inflammatory bowel disease, Crohn's disease, or ulcerative colitis.
- You have a genetic syndrome such as familial adenomatous polyposis (FAP) or hereditary nonpolyposis colorectal cancer.

People at high risk for colorectal cancer may need earlier or more frequent tests than other people. Talk to your doctor about when to begin screening and how often you should be tested.

Who Gets Colorectal Cancer?

- Both men and women can get it.
- It is most often found in people 50 or older.
- The risk increases with age.

The Bottom Line

If you're 50 or older, talk to your doctor about getting screened.

National Nutrition Month

This year's theme, “Go Further with Food” for National Nutrition Month® encourages us to achieve the numerous benefits healthy eating habits offer, but it also urges us to find ways to cut back on food waste. Learning how to manage food resources at home will help you "Go Further with Food", while saving both nutrients and money.

Key Messages:

- ✓ Include a variety of healthful foods from all of the food groups on a regular basis.
- ✓ Consider the foods you have on hand before buying more at the store.
- ✓ Buy only the amount that can be eaten or frozen within a few days and plan ways to use leftovers later in the week.
- ✓ Be mindful of portion sizes. Eat and drink the amount that's right for you.
- ✓ Continue to use good food safety practices.
- ✓ Find activities that you enjoy and be physically active most days of the week.
- ✓ Realize the benefits of healthy eating by consulting with a registered dietitian nutritionist. RDNs can provide sound, easy-to-follow personalized nutrition advice to meet your lifestyle, preferences and health-related needs.

Healthy Recipe

Simple Salmon with Dill Sauce

Ingredients

- 1 salmon fillet (about 2 pounds)
- 2 tablespoons low-sodium soy sauce
- Coarse black pepper
- 1/2 cup low-fat sour cream
- Olive oil
- 1/2 cup finely chopped cucumber
- 1 teaspoon fresh dill

Directions

Preheat oven to 450°F. Rinse salmon fillet and place skin-side down on a flat baking pan.

Pour soy sauce over salmon and sprinkle with pepper.

Roast salmon using the 10-minute rule--approximately 10 minutes per inch of thickness at the thickest point.

If you want to brown the top, brush lightly with olive oil and sear the salmon before roasting, or run briefly under broiler.

Cook until the salmon is opaque and flakes easily with a fork (internal temperature of 145°F).

Serve salmon hot or cold with dill sauce made by combining 1/2 cup low-fat sour cream, 1/2 cup finely chopped cucumber that has been lightly salted and drained, and 1 teaspoon chopped fresh dill (or more to taste).
